CARSON EDITOR SHOWS UP GRAFT IN MANAGEMENT OF UNIVERSITY

A few months ago the News dared to express its opinion regarding the management of the Nevada State university. A few of the papers of the state took the matter up and roundly abused the News for its stand. This abuse did not convince us we were in the wrong, but showed to us we would have to produce facts and figures to prove our contentions.

At this time we are prepared to do so and call upon those who doubt our word to view the bills presented to the state board of examiners monthly from the State university and be convinced of the lax manner in which the funds are expended. We say lax manner when in fact a harsher word would perhaps cover the matter to a greater extent.

Take for instance a bill for paints and supplies furnished at the university by a Reno firm and bearing the O. K. of President Stubbs.

The bill was made out in regular form and properly itemized. An item was also included of 10 per cent of the entire bill. The bill was returned to Dr. Stubbs for explanation and his reply was to the effect that the regents had made a contract with a Reno firm to supply all paints and materials of a like nature to the university at a cost price plus ten per cent as profit to the firm.

The board of examiners inquired into the bill and found the price charged on the bill and the cost of the same materials in Carson as follows:

Price charged less the	Carson added 10 per cent	Cost.
Spar varnish gal.	$3.00 $1.60

DIZZY GOLD VALUES AT THE SEVEN TROUGHS

COALITION COMPANY'S OPERA-TIONS BRING MARVELOUS
ORE INTO SIGHT.

An idea of the remarkable gold ore discovery made recently by the Seven Troughs Coalition Mining company is had in a letter from the superintendent to R. J. Evans of Salt Lake City, says the Salt Lake Tribune. This letter, in part, follows:

"The vein in the Freidman winze has continued to carry exceptionally high values down to a point fifty feet below the eighth level, where we are now establishing our ninth level and drifting east and west on the vein. This is a shorter lift than we had intended, but the values have been so extremely high, both in the winze and in the eighth level drift west, that we have decided to throw our drifts out at once and prospect the extent of the shoot.

"The streak which carries best values hung closely to the hanging wall, and has varied in width from four to ten and twelve inches. The vein proper has measured from four to five feet in width, with an eight-inch streak against the footwall and a small streak in the center. These two assays run from $20 up to $50. The following are the assays from the hanging wall streak, which will demonstrate fully how rich it is."

The assays mentioned in the letter cover practically all of September, the highest in twenty being $7224 per ton, the lowest $690.80.
Fourteen assays range above $1000 per ton; nine above $2000, and three above $3000 per ton. Only six are below $1000.

The letter continues to the effect that these values are had along 30 feet. The vein in the west drift from the eighth level runs as high as $3492.80 per ton, and enough work has been done to assure the company of a very high grade production for a long time to come, proving this to be among the mar-vels of gold mining in the western section.

The cyanide plant is in succe-ful operation and the company has a comfortable cash surplus ahead.

MAN WHO WAS IN THE GREAT PORCUPINE FIRE

WINNEMUCCA MINING MAN TELLS OF HIS TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

Gus Bremer, a well-known miner, who was one of the principal owners in what was known as the Swede lease at the camp of Barrett Springs, returned yesterday from Porcupine, Canada, says the Winnemucca Star. He was at the Canadian mining camp during the big fire that raged there a few months ago and tells of his miraculous escape from death and terrible experience during that great conflagration that wiped out the lives of hundreds of people.

Mr. Bremer states that he was one of the many hundreds of people who were driven into the lake by the onrush of fire, the woods being all ablaze and the flames spreading so rapidly that the water was the only place of refuge. Some 600 people took refuge in the lake, but he says that only about half of this number came out alive.

In the water were all kinds of domestic and wild animals and even bears could be seen swimming with the frantic people that were surrounded by a wall of fire. In the lake, or what might be termed a great caldron, Mr. Bremer says he remained for six hours with the heat so intense that his face was a mass of blisters and it was with difficulty that he could breathe.
When rescued he was in a very precarious condition and it is only now that he is recovering from the long illness and the terrible burns he received during that frightful experience. It is with difficulty that he can talk as his throat was badly narrowed by breathing the fiery atmosphere that enveloped him while he was in the lake.

Mr. Bremer left here last February, when there was a great rush of people to the Porcupine mining excitement.
